Howls Of Political Pain Are Heard Over Invitation To 'Visit Ike Free'

Offer Brings Hot Retorts

All GOP Delegates Eligible In Plan

WASHINGTON, May 31 — (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, homebound, was flying straight into a political squall kicked up by a plan for GOP convention delegates to visit him, expenses paid. Cries against the plan's no-cost feature arose from the political managers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who holds a delegate lead over Eisenhower in the tight Republican presidential nomination race, and of Sen. Estes Kefauver, Tennessee who leads Democratic candidates.

The howls of political pain went up Friday shortly after Eisenhower-for-President headquarters here disclosed that every Republican National Convention delegate had been invited to call upon the general in any of three places—Eisenhower's hometown, Abilene, Kan., New York, or Denver. A headquarters spokesman said expenses would be footed by local, not national, Eisenhower organizations, if not borne by delegates. Gael Sullivan, Kefauver manager, called it "gross bribery."

HE SAID THE Justice Department should investigate to determine "the extent of violation of the Corrupt Practices Act." This federal statute defines permissible practices in political campaigns.

David C. Ingalls, national chairman of the Taft-for-President Committee, said: "The plan comes pretty close to efforts at bribery and is only one example of the money poured by Wall Street into the Eisenhower campaign."

Eisenhower headquarters called Ingalls' statement "false and vicious." Meanwhile, plans were laid for Eisenhower's final days in uniform as the organizer of Allied defenses against Communism in Europe, and his first days as an ex-commander in the midst of a hot political struggle.

Eisenhower indicated he wants to make the change by degrees. In Paris, where he was packing to leave, he told reporters:

1. He would keep his uniform on during his journey home and during conferences in Washington. After his official conferences end late Tuesday, he said, he will put on civilian clothing.

2. "If I am called as standard-bearer of a political party, at that moment my resignation (of his commission as an Army officer) will be in the hands of the President."

3. HE REITERATED that he would not campaign for nomination. His headquarters here said that meant he planned no transcontinental speaking tours.

Elaborate plans were laid by the military for Eisenhower's official welcome home at National Airport late Sunday afternoon.

It was previously announced Eisenhower would be taken almost immediately to see President Truman at the White House, and would confer again with the President before leaving for Abilene late Tuesday. He will hold a Pentagon news conference Tuesday morning.

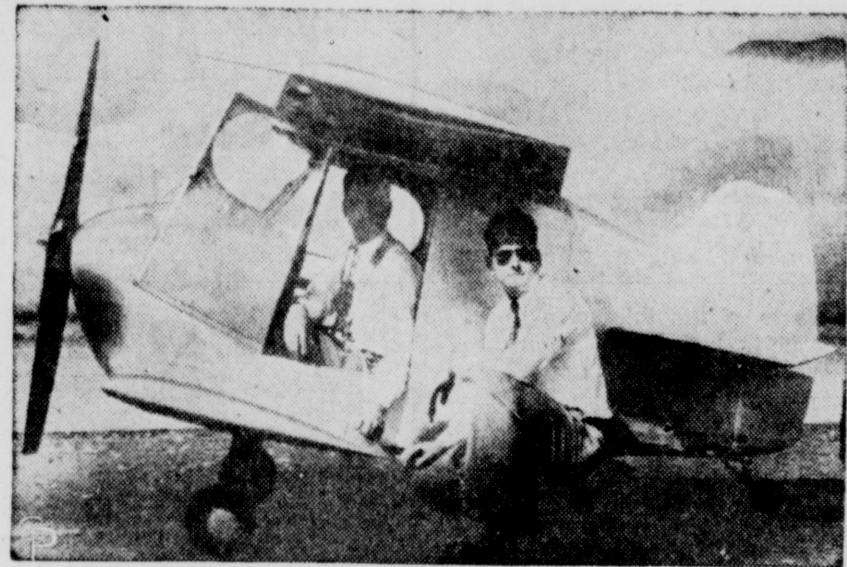

The general will make an address from Abilene Wednesday over nationwide radio-TV.

His only other scheduled address is in Detroit later, but his headquarters said he would speak many more times, in response to a "bale of requests."

Eisenhower campaign headquarters said the delegate invitations were to one-and-all of 1,206 Republican delegates named or to be named to the Chicago convention. That included delegates pledged to Taft. An Eisenhower headquarters spokesman said guests could ask the general any questions. Taft delegates, therefore, had an invitation to come and shoot questions at Eisenhower on domestic and international issues.

3 Of 9 Ohio Prison Escapees At Large After Friday Break

COLUMBUS, May 31 — (AP)—Nine criminals overpowered a guard Friday night to pull off one of the largest mass escapes in Ohio Penitentiary's history.

Police re-captured four quickly. They picked up a fifth early Saturday. A sixth gave himself up a few hours later.

"The worst ones are back now," said Warden Ralph W. Alvis. He referred especially to two slayers—Bernard Massulla, 36, sentenced from Harrison County for the murder of a state highway patrolman in September, 1937; and Robert E. Lee, 30, sentenced from Lancaster for second degree murder of a tailor at the Boys' Industrial School when he was an inmate there in 1940.

The largest mass break from the overcrowded penitentiary was Nov. 1, 1926, when 13 convicts forced their way out of the front gate.

THREE CONVICTS were shot, three were recaptured and two guards were wounded at that time.

There was no gunplay in Friday night's break, or when the men were caught. None of the convicts was believed armed. They got no weapons from the guard they overpowered—R. C. Thompson.

The warden listed these men still at large: Leander Reed, 30, sentenced from Cincinnati for armed robbery; William Kimble, 26, sentenced from Cleveland for armed robbery.

Edward Mischler, 45, serving time for robbing a loan company in Franklin County in 1949. His home is in Newport, Ky.

These men were recaptured: Alfred Oponowicz, 28, sentenced from Cleveland for armed robbery; George Frazier, 21, sentenced from Cincinnati for assault with intent to rob.

William Black, 28, of Columbus, sentenced from Cincinnati for armed robbery.

William Lindsay, 31, sentenced from Cleveland for armed robbery. Friday's break, according to Thompson, the guard, started in a dormitory holding about 140 men. He told the warden:

"About 10 or 12 men came up and grabbed me. They taped my mouth and taped my hands behind my back and took my keys."

One key opened a door that let them get near a window. They had sawed bars from a heavy grating. They went out the window onto the roof of the prison's record room. They then either jumped about 10 feet to the prison parking lot or crawled down a drain pipe and ran across Spring Street.

Both Republican, Democrat Races Starting To Tighten Up

WASHINGTON, May 31 — (AP)—The political weather forecast for Saturday: Squalls in the Taft-Eisenhower region, especially South Dakota, with increasing excitement as the general nears home and 22 more Republican convention delegates are chosen.

Three states — New Mexico, Virginia and Georgia—hold GOP meetings to name presidential nominating delegates. New Mexico selects 14, Virginia four and Georgia four.

Ohio Sen. Robert Taft's backers seemed to have the upper hand in the Roanoke, Va., convention. The four at-large delegates to be named will round out Virginia's 23-vote slate.

The Georgia gathering in Atlanta will complete a 17-member pro-Eisenhower delegation. A rival group already has been named by Taft backers.

A Democratic primary in North Carolina nominates for Congress and governor, and Minnesota Democrats open a two-day convention which will complete that state's 26-vote group by selecting three at-large members.

Enemy Says POW Incidents Fired By Allies To Postpone Truce

MUNSAN, May 31 — (AP)—Communist truce negotiators Saturday accused the United Nations Command of provoking prisoner of war incidents to delay a Korea armistice and "to prepare the ground for an extension of the war."

The UN delegation replied that except for Communist stubbornness the exchange of prisoners could be underway now.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il made formal protests over POW riots Thursday and Friday which cost nine prisoners their lives. He said: "These are obviously deliberate provocations designed to obstruct the outcome of the question on prisoners of war and to delay armistice proceedings, to create new fears and tensions and to prepare the ground for extension of the Korean war."

Outbreaks at UN war prisoner camps on seething Kojima Island and on the Korean mainland Thursday and Friday left nine Red prisoners killed and 17 wounded.

SIX OF THESE deaths were on riot-torn Kojima, where UN soldiers constructed new, smaller compounds they hope will end POW rule inside the enclosures.

In Japan three rioters were killed when about 200 Koreans, students and laborers attacked an outlying Tokyo police station with searing acid and flaming oil bombs.

Although streams of Memorial Day traffic thundered over Pickaway County roads Friday, no serious accidents were reported.

In fact, only one accident was investigated by local authorities during the day.

State Highway Patrolman Bob Greene said the lone accident involved an auto and a motor scooter just north of Circleville. No one was injured.

Pickaway County sheriff's department and Circleville police reported they had no accident calls during the day.

However, local enforcement officers anticipate more business Sunday afternoon and evening when motorists heading home from long holiday weekend trips will crowd the highways.

Democratic and Republican races. Sen. Richard Russell edged past W. Averell Harriman on the Democratic track to second position behind Sen. Estes Kefauver. Eisenhower closed the gap somewhat between himself and Taft among the Republicans.

Florida's Tuesday primary gave Russell a 19-vote push. Kefauver got the state's other five, plus Tennessee's 28 Democratic votes.

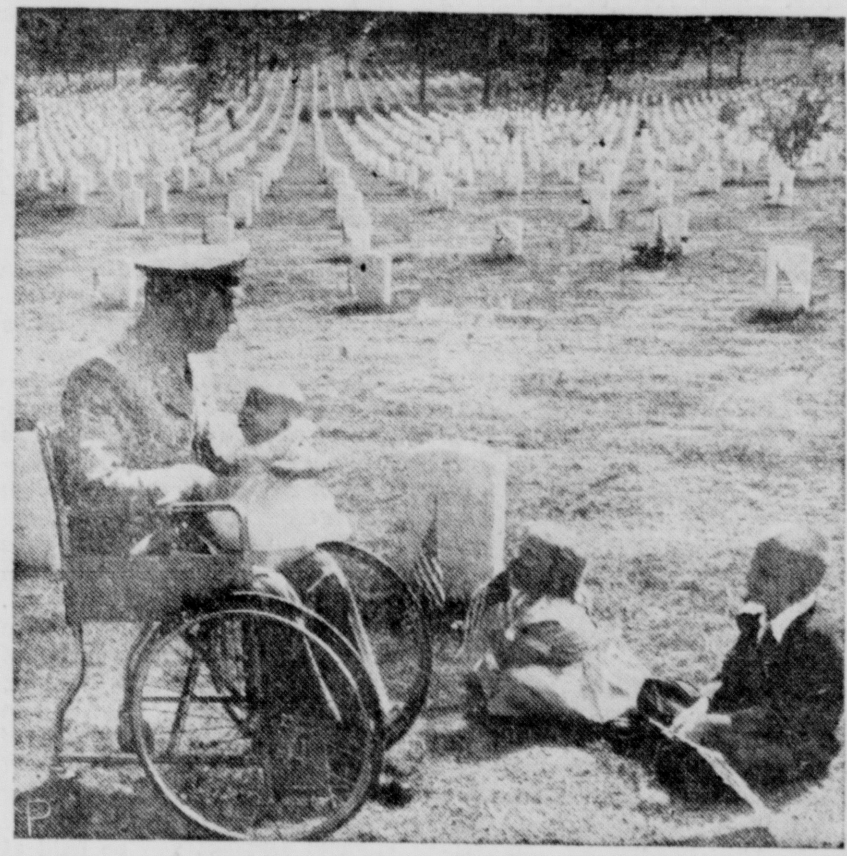

Vice President Alben Barkley announced Thursday he would accept the Democratic presidential nomination although "not a candidate in the regular sense."

This came after Barkley's home-state Kentucky pledged him its 26 votes.

Taft picked up 12 delegates to Eisenhower's 27. These included: for Taft, five conceded him in Texas and seven in Alabama; for Eisenhower, 20 of Connecticut's 22, four conceded in Texas and three in Alabama.

At week's end, the top of the Associated Press tabulation of nationwide delegate strength showed: Republican—Taft 411, Eisenhower 386. It takes 604 to be nominated.

Democrat—Kefauver 150, Russell 86½, Harriman 85½. Nomination requires 611.

Official Mourning For King Slated To End At Midnight

LONDON, May 31 — (AP)—The official mourning period for King George VI comes to a close Saturday midnight and Britons prepared for as gay a summer as their austerity program will allow.

Women brought their brightest frocks out of the closet and men put away the dark neckties they have worn since their monarch died Feb. 6.

The crepe bands which thousands of citizens were wearing on their sleeves will disappear and the tempo of all activities in the empire will quicken.

The greatest change, undoubtedly, will be in the life of 26-year-old Queen Elizabeth II. Social life, ceremonial and official duty will expand greatly, and if she does half of what is expected of her she will be about the busiest woman in her realm.

MOST HUMBLER Britons have recovered from the mourning mood, but persons in the higher social brackets have adjusted their pace to that of the court. Many parties have been delayed.

In the diplomatic corps the new era of light-heartedness will be touched off by the Embassy of Nepal, one of the mansions in Kensington Palace Gardens Millionaire's Row. The ambassador, Gen. Shamsur Jang Bahadur Rana Shanker, will entertain 1,200 persons at a reception at which envoys' wives will have their first opportunity this year to wear summer frocks.

As the period of mourning passes and the Queen takes up the burdens of her position many Britons are resolved that she should not work as hard as her father.

Many believe he would have lived longer if he had taken more leisure. But good resolutions not withstanding, there will be terrific pressure on the Queen, who also has the job of raising two children. A Buckingham Palace spokesman said that already her list of engagements is "formidable."

THREE PERSONS lost their lives in a crash at Eaton in Preble County, late Friday night. Killed in a head-on crash were Mrs. Hazel Bruns, 36, and her son, Robert, 14, both of Route 4, Eaton, and Lester Isaacs, 31, of Farmersville, 25 miles southeast of Eaton.

Her husband, Elmer, and several other persons were injured. Several of the injured were taken to a hospital in Richmond, Ind. Sheriff's deputies said Isaacs was riding in a car with California license plates, but they were unable to learn the driver's name.

The other fatalities: Thursday Night—Mrs. Cora Holbert, 68, of Cleveland, in a two-car collision near Dover.

Friday—Thomas F. Sablotnik, 21, and his aunt, Miss Irene Sokalsky, 25, both of Cleveland, when their car plunged into a creek.

Miss Sally Lee Spears, 20, of Columbus, when a motorcycle on which she was a passenger struck two parked cars.

William H. Drake, 52, of New Castle, Pa., truck driver, and Russell Fero, 19, Paul Fero, 28, and Gerald Janis, 17, all of Youngstown, when the latter's car and the truck collided near Youngstown.

Mrs. Roxie Cantrell, 36, of Dayton, killed when auto in which she was riding hit a bridge on U. S. 68 south of Xenia.

Saturday—John Sanderveck, 15, Youngstown, died of injuries suffered Friday night in truck-auto crash fatal to four others near Youngstown.

Robert Coyle, 34, of Hamilton, injured fatally when car left Ohio 127.

Freddie Smith, 25, of 33 Twelfth St., Massillon, burned to death when his mail truck hit a guard rail, upset and caught fire on U. S. 36 west of Cadiz.

A survey Saturday, near the halfway mark in the extended holiday, showed 104 persons had been killed in motor mishaps since 6 p. m. Thursday throughout the nation.

The National Safety Council had estimated 310 persons would lose their lives in traffic accidents during the holiday.

Huffy Communists Walk Out On Roosevelt Memorial Rites

HYDE PARK, N. Y., May 31 — (AP)—Six Communist delegates to the United Nations walked out on a Memorial Day service for Franklin D. Roosevelt after W. Averell Harriman said the Soviets turned traitor to the cause of peace.

The six delegates—two each from Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia—are members of the UN Economic and Social Council.

They were part of some 50 members of the council invited to attend the annual grave site services Friday for the late President.

When the six arrived Harriman, mutual security administrator, was speaking.

"It has not been easy to keep bright the principles of Franklin Roosevelt since he died," Harriman said, adding:

"In the international field, a former ally which we had helped save from destruction, in order that it might join in destroying Nazi tyranny, turned traitor to the cause of peace and international good faith, and promoted an even more terrible tyranny of its own."

"The foundations of a permanent peace which it endorsed at San Francisco began to break into pieces."

The six delegates strode from the hedge-enclosed rose garden where Mr. Roosevelt is buried. The men refused to give their names or comment on their action.

Others in the party claimed not to know their names.

Witnessing the walkout were the President's widow and two of her sons, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and John.

Commented Mrs. Roosevelt: "You'd know they'd have to do that."

The nine prisoner deaths added to tension in the UN prisoner of war camps in Korea.

On Koje Island camp officials disclosed that five prisoners were killed and two wounded Friday although only five bullets were fired from an M1 Army rifle by an American guard. In battle as many as three have been killed by one M1 slug.

The guard opened fire when a prisoner on a latrine detail attacked him. The fifth victim died early Saturday and one of the two remaining wounded was reported in critical condition.

Camp officials said the prisoner attacked when the guard stopped him from throwing illegal messages over the fence of a nearby compound.

The sixth Koje prisoner death was Thursday, when a U. S. soldier's automatic rifle fired accidentally during a guard change in Compound 66—two hours after a bloodless skirmish in the same compound.

Three Korean civilian internees were killed and 13 injured Thursday in a fight among captured personnel moved from Koje to a new compound at Yongchon, 60 miles north of Pusan, provisional capital of South Korea.

Police fired into the mob as it surged forward breaking windows with sticks and stones and threatening 13 officers.

Three newspapermen were the only Americans reported injured in rioting that spread north to Hokkaido and south to Kyushu.

Twenty-five thousand police smashed 37 demonstrations participated in by an estimated 20,000 persons. They arrested 111 leaders.

Police said 113 officers were hurt, but did not say how many demonstrators were injured.

The central committee of the Japanese Communist Party called the demonstrations to mark the anniversary of a May 30 Communist uprising two years ago.

National rural police said the riots centered in outlying sections of Tokyo and in Osaka. Nearly 30 persons were arrested in two big Tokyo riots, 39 in Osaka and 13 Red Koreans at nearby Nara.

CLASHES BETWEEN police and students, workers and Koreans were reported at Sapporo and Sendai in the north and Hiroshima and Fukuoka in the west. On Japan's northernmost island, police broke up a demonstration by Hokkaido University students.

'I Like Ike' Cry Heard In London

LONDON, May 31 — (P)—Police startled by cries of "I like Ike" shrilling through the trees around the houses of Parliament Friday sent out a search posse. They found 24-year-old Jean Thurgar trying to coax her parrot Benji out of a tree.

She said Benji escaped from her nearby Baker Street flat a week ago and has spent most of his time flying around Parliament since.

"I taught him to say 'I like Ike,'" she added.

Toll Road Fee Estimate Given

COLUMBUS, May 31 — (P)—Here's an estimate of what you may have to pay to drive on Ohio's proposed super toll road across the northern part of the state:

Private autos traveling the full 241-mile length—$3. That's about 1.2 cent a mile.

Trucks—An average of 4.7 cents a mile. Heaviest trucks will pay $21 for the full distance.

Cyclists—$1.50 to go all the way.

Wallace Pleading For U.S. 'Unity'

KATONAH, N. Y., May 31 — (P)—Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace has made a plea for national unity regardless of differences of opinion about the Korean War and other international events.

"One thing on which 99 per cent of us can agree is that the Anglo-Saxon way of life is more imperiled than at any time in many generations," Wallace said in a Memorial Day speech. He mentioned politics only briefly, saying that the ranks of both the Republican and Democratic parties are deeply split.

Official Mourning For King Slated To End At Midnight

LONDON, May 31 — (P)—The official mourning period for King George VI comes to a close Saturday midnight and Britons prepared for as gay a summer as their austerity program will allow.

Women brought their brightest frocks out of the closet and men put away the dark neckties they have worn since their monarch died Feb. 6.

The crepe bands which thousands of citizens were wearing on their sleeves will disappear and the tempo of all activities in the empire will quicken.

The greatest change, undoubtedly, will be in the life of 26-year-old Queen Elizabeth II. Social life, ceremonial and official duty will expand greatly, and if she does half of what is expected of her she will be about the busiest woman in her realm.

MOST HUMBLER Britons have recovered from the mourning mood, but persons in the higher social brackets have adjusted their pace to that of the court. Many parties have been delayed.

In the diplomatic corps the new era of light-heartedness will be touched off by the Embassy of Nepal, one of the mansions in Kensington Palace Gardens Millionaire's Row. The ambassador, Gen. Shamsheer Jang Bahadur Rana Shanker, will entertain 1,200 persons at a reception at which envoys' wives will have their first opportunity this year to wear summer frocks.

As the period of mourning passes and the Queen takes up the burdens of her position many Britons are resolved that she should not work as hard as her father.

Many believe he would have lived longer if he had taken more leisure.

But good resolutions not withstanding, there will be terrific pressure on the Queen, who also has the job of raising two children. A Buckingham Palace spokesman said that already her list of engagements is "formidable."

'I Like Ike' Cry Heard In London

LONDON, May 31 — (P)—Police startled by cries of "I like Ike" shrilling through the trees around the houses of Parliament Friday sent out a search posse. They found 24-year-old Jean Thurgar trying to coax her parrot Benji out of a tree.

She said Benji escaped from her nearby Baker Street flat a week ago and has spent most of his time flying around Parliament since.

"I taught him to say 'I like Ike,'" she added.

Ohio's Total Above Safety Council Guess

National Toll Said More Than 150; Cars Bring Most Deaths

COLUMBUS, May 31 — (P)—At least 19 persons have lost their lives in traffic accidents in Ohio during the long Memorial Day holiday weekend that does not end until Monday.

No other types of accidental deaths were reported.

The Ohio Safety Council had predicted that only 10 persons would die in Ohio accidents during the three-day holiday. On the national scene, the first day and one-half of the long weekend had produced 104 deaths on the highways.

Four persons were killed Saturday in a two-car collision in Beverly, near Marietta.

Dead were John R. Clum, 19, of Somerset, O., Perry County; Louis Cathars, 19, of Clarion, Pa.; Charles P. Cassidy, 22, of Wierston, W. Va.; and Henry W. Skinner, 22, of Waterford, O. Clum, Cathars and Cassidy were with the Air Force at Langley Air Force Base.

The patrol said Cathars and Cassidy were passengers in a car driven by Clum. The second car was driven by Skinner.

THREE PERSONS lost their lives in a crash at Eaton in Preble County, late Friday night. Killed in a head-on crash were Mrs. Hazel Bruns, 36, and her son, Robert, 14, both of Route 4, Eaton, and Lester Isaacs, 31, of Farmersville, 25 miles southeast of Ertown.

Her husband, Elmer, and several other persons were injured. Several of the injured were taken to a hospital in Richmond, Ind. Sheriff's deputies said Isaacs was riding in a car with California license plates, but they were unable to learn the driver's name.

The other fatalities:

Thursday Night—

Mrs. Cora Holbert, 68, of Cleveland, in a two-car collision near Dover.

Friday—

Thomas F. Sablotnik, 21, and his aunt, Miss Irene Sokalsky, 25, both of Cleveland, when their car plunged into a creek.

Miss Sally Lee Spears, 20, of Columbus, when a motorcycle on which she was a passenger struck two parked cars.

William H. Drake, 52, of New Castle, Pa., truck driver, and Russell Fero, 19, Paul Fero, 28, and Gerald Janis, 17, all of Youngstown, when the latter's car and the truck collided near Youngstown.

Mrs. Roxie Cantrell, 36, of Dayton, killed when auto in which she was riding hit a bridge on U. S. 68 south of Xenia.

Saturday—

John Sanderveck, 15, Youngstown, died of injuries suffered Friday night in truck-auto crash fatal to four others near Youngstown.

Robert Coyle, 54, of Hamilton, injured fatally when car left Ohio 127.

Freddie Smith, 25, of 33 Twelfth St., Massillon, burned to death when his mail truck hit a guard rail, upset and caught fire on U. S. 36 west of Cadiz.

A survey Saturday, near the halfway mark in the extended holiday, showed 104 persons had been killed in motor mishaps since 6 p. m. Thursday throughout the nation.

The National Safety Council had estimated 310 persons would lose their lives in traffic accidents during the holiday.

Huffy Communists Walk Out On Roosevelt Memorial Rites

HYDE PARK, N. Y., May 31 — (P)—Six Communist delegates to the United Nations walked out on a Memorial Day service for Franklin D. Roosevelt after W. Averell Harriman said the Soviets turned traitor to the cause of peace.

The six delegates—two each from Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia—are members of the UN Economic and Social Council.

They were part of some 30 members of the council invited to attend the annual grave site services Friday for the late President.

When the six arrived Harriman, mutual security administrator, was speaking.

"It has not been easy to keep bright the principles of Franklin Roosevelt since he died," Harriman said, adding:

might join in destroying Nazi tyranny, turned traitor to the cause of peace and international good faith, and promoted an even more terrible tyranny of its own.

"The foundations of a permanent peace which it endorsed at San Francisco began to break into pieces."

The six delegates strode from the hedge-enclosed rose garden where Mr. Roosevelt is buried. The men refused to give their names or comment on their action.

Others in the party claimed not to know their names.

Witnessing the walkout were the President's widow and two of her sons, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and John.

Commented Mrs. Roosevelt: "You'd know they'd have to do that."

Dairy Month Topic Heard By Rotarians

Fred Greiner, secretary of the Ohio Dairy Products Association, was guest speaker Thursday during Rotary Club meeting in Elk's Home.

His topic was "June Dairy Month," during which the association tries to bring to the consumer the importance of the industry and milk production is at its highest.

He said few realize that the dairy industry in Ohio is the leading source of income to Ohio farmers. Ohio ranks eighth in the United States in total milk production, second in production of evaporated milk and third in production of cottage cheese.

He ended his talk with a reading entitled "Tribute to a Cow". Invocation was given by the Rev. Carl Wilson, followed by singing led by Karl Herrmann.

A directors' meeting will be held June 4, at which time the incoming board will meet with the retiring board. It was also announced six representatives will attend the next meeting of the Citizens' League June 6 in common pleas courtroom. They are David Yates, Paul Johnson, Tom Gilliland, Frank Barnhill Jr., Louis Grace and Robert Bremner Jr.

Ed Ebert Jr. directed the program. MAC NOGGLE presided during the meeting and announced the following committees for the coming year.

Blue-Gray War March About Over

NEW YORK.—(P)—Memorial Day this year saw fewer than a dozen survive of the massed millions who fought in the American war of brother-against-brother that ended 87 years ago.

This long and bitter struggle played so important a role in our national story, it is still so close to us as a people, it seems incredible that soon even the last drummer boy who took part in it will have been swallowed by time.

The earth is a tomb of many vanished armies, but few will live longer in memory than those that contended under the banners of the Federal Union and the Confederacy from 1861 to 1865. Those memories in many minds even now are like sensitive scar tissue.

Historians now class the Civil War as the first modern war, and certainly it made many changes in the art of battle both afoot and at sea.

It truly was a big war, considering the population at the time. The North threw 2,128,948 men into action and suffered 349,944 casualties. The number of troops on the South's side is debatable. Northern historians put the figure as high as 1,400,000 out of a white populace of only five million. Estimates by Southern historians go as low as 600,000. Woodrow Wilson said the South put 900,000 men in the field and placed their losses in killed and wounded at 133,821.

As in most wars before the development of sanitation techniques, disease took more lives than bullets. The North, for example, lost only about 110,000 men from combat wounds. It lost nearly 200,000 through diseases.

The cost of the war is still going on, mainly now in the form of payments to the widows of veterans. But every once in a while someone still tries to get the government to pay for a mule that one of U. S. Grants men in Blue stole from his great great granddaddy's farm.

The North ended the war by the grinding weight of superior manpower and industrial might. But although finally worn down, the South managed to emerge with most of the heroes.

Certainly today when school-boys, both North and South, read of the great battles of that war, their hearts go out most to the chieftains of "The Lost Cause"—soldiers like Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, and that sabre-in-uniform, Jeb Stuart.

U. S. Grant was a titan, but in youth there is a quality that admires a leader who fights gallantly in the face of almost certain defeat. That is why the Southern commanders now hold such a glamor to boys growing up in Iowa as well as in Ala-

Crash Kills 14

TOLUCA, Mexico, May 31.—(P)—Fourteen persons were killed Friday night and 21 were injured when a train rammed their bus 45 miles northwest of Mexico City.

It also explains why young men make better soldiers than old men.

My own favorite of that period has always been Stonewall Jackson, who died and left an immortal name at 39. Field Marshal Rommel once came over to the Shenandoah Valley to study Jackson's famous blitzkrieg marches of 1862.

Jackson had the rare ability to outmaneuver and destroy an opponent facing him with more and better-armed troops. That is the supreme test of military genius.

They still teach Jackson's tactics at West Point, but if they have produced another Stonewall he is hiding his light under a bushel somewhere.

Ohio's Total

ing the 78-hour period ending at midnight Sunday.

The country's accidental death toll since Thursday evening was above 150, with 27 persons drowned and 24 others killed from miscellaneous violent accidents.

Violent accidents caused 134 deaths on the 1951 Memorial Day—a one-day holiday. Included were 84 traffic fatalities.

The 104 traffic deaths in the first 36 hours of the holiday period compares to an average of 88 persons killed daily in highway accidents from Jan. 1 to May 1 this year. The total for the first four months was 10,650. Traffic deaths in 1951 were 37,500, the highest in 10 years.

Display Window Smashed Out; Jewelry Stolen

Butch Jewelry store, West Main street, was robbed of 13 watches and seven rings early Saturday.

The robbery was brought about by the thief tossing an egg-sized stone through a front display window and making a grab for the jewelry.

Haste of the thief was apparent in that a large amount of jewelry was left in the display window.

Joe Burns, operator of the store, estimated the loss at about $600. Two of the rings were diamond sets and the other five were plain rings.

Police said the theft was discovered early Saturday by Dr. William Rickey, Circleville dentist, on his way to work. The robbery happened sometime after midnight.

Woman Wounded By Stray Shot

Mrs. Muriel Reichelderfer, 67, of 403 East Franklin street, was shot through the right hand early Saturday while working in her yard.

Officer Charles Smith said Mrs. Reichelderfer was shot at about 9:30 a. m. Saturday while at work in the east side of her yard.

The pellet struck her right hand and passed completely through it. She was treated by a physician for the wound and returned home.

Officer Smith said the wound probably was caused by a stray shot from a high-compression air rifle or pistol.

Blue-Gray War March About Over

NEW YORK—(P)—Memorial Day this year saw fewer than a dozen survive of the massed millions who fought in the American war of brother-against-brother that ended 87 years ago.

This long and bitter struggle played so important a role in our national story, it is still so close to us as a people, it seems incredible that soon even the last drummer boy who took part in it will have been swallowed by time.

The earth is a tomb of many vanished armies, but few will live longer in memory than those that contended under the banners of the Federal Union and the Confederacy from 1861 to 1865. Those memories in many minds even now are like sensitive scar tissue.

Historians now class the Civil War as the first modern war, and certainly it made many changes in the art of battle both afoot and at sea.

It truly was a big war, considering the population at the time. The North threw 2,128,948 men into action and suffered 349,944 casualties. The number of troops on the South's side is debatable. Northern historians put the figure as high as 1,400,000 out of a white populace of only five million. Estimates by Southern historians go as low as 600,000. Woodrow Wilson said the South put 900,000 men in the field and placed their losses in killed and wounded at 133,821.

As in most wars before the development of sanitation techniques, disease took more lives than bullets. The North, for example, lost only about 110,000 men from combat wounds. It lost nearly 200,000 through diseases.

The cost of the war is still going on, mainly now in the form of payments to the widows of veterans. But every once in a while someone still tries to get the government to pay for a mule that one of U. S. Grants men in Blue stole from his great great granddaddy's farm.

The North ended the war by the grinding weight of superior manpower and industrial might. But although finally worn down, the South managed to emerge with most of the heroes.

Certainly today when school-boys, both North and South, read of the great battles of that war, their hearts go out most to the chieftains of "The Lost Cause"—soldiers like Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, and that sabbre-in-uniform, Jeb Stuart.

U. S. Grant was a titan, but in youth there is a quality that admires a leader who fights gallantly in the face of almost certain defeat. That is why the Southern commanders now hold such a glamor to boys growing up in Iowa as well as in Alabama.

"bama. It also explains why young men make better soldiers than old men.

My own favorite of that period has always been Stonewall Jackson, who died and left an immortal name at 39. Field Marshal Rommel once came over to the Shenandoah Valley to study Jackson's famous blitzkrieg marches of 1862.

Jackson had the rare ability to outmaneuver and destroy an opponent facing him with more and better-armed troops. That is the supreme test of military genius.

They still teach Jackson's tactics at West Point, but if they have produced another Stonewall he is hiding his light under a bushel somewhere.

Ohio's Total

ing the 78-hour period ending at midnight Sunday.

The country's accidental death toll since Thursday evening was above 150, with 27 persons drowned and 24 others killed from miscellaneous violent accidents.

Violent accidents caused 134 deaths on the 1951 Memorial Day—a one-day holiday. Included were 84 traffic fatalities.

The 104 traffic deaths in the first 36 hours of the holiday period compares to an average of 83 persons killed daily in highway accidents from Jan. 1 to May 1 this year. The total for the first four months was 10,650. Traffic deaths in 1951 were 37,500, the highest in 10 years.

Display Window Smashed Out; Jewelry Stolen

Butch Jewelry store, West Main street, was robbed of 13 watches and seven rings early Saturday.

The robbery was brought about by the thief tossing an egg-sized stone through a front display window and making a grab for the jewelry.

Haste of the thief was apparent in that a large amount of jewelry was left in the display window.

Joe Burns, operator of the store, estimated the loss at about $600. Two of the rings were diamond sets and the other five were plain rings.

Police said the theft was discovered early Saturday by Dr. William Rickey, Circleville dentist, on his way to work. The robbery happened sometime after midnight.

Pentecost To Be Observed Sunday In Churches Throughout World

Local churches are to join with churches across America and around the world Sunday in observance of Pentecost (Whitsunday).

In many churches which are members of the World Council of Churches (this includes most of the major denominations in the United States) a message from the presidents of the World Council will be read. The Pentecost message, sent to the 158 member communions of the World Council in 43 countries, says in part:

"We celebrate today the creation of the Church of Jesus Christ by the Holy Spirit. We should ask ourselves whether our churches and whether we ourselves really know the Holy Spirit and let the Spirit rule our lives.

"Saint Paul bids us remember that the spirit which God has given to the Church is not a timid spirit. The Holy Spirit of God forbids us to be fearful for the future of the Church, or to be preoccupied with the search for security against real or imagined dangers. The Holy Spirit is the Spirit of power, the life-giving and dynamic Spirit, the Spirit of total renewal. The Spirit of love leads the Church to embrace in its prayer, its witness and its works of mercy, men of all races, nations, parties and creeds. . . . The Spirit of Pentecost is the Spirit of unity.

"There is nothing, absolutely nothing, that the Church needs more than a rekindling of the gift which God gave it at Pentecost. The Church which lives under the guidance of the Spirit is in the midst of human weakness a center of spiritual power; in the midst of conflict and strife a force of reconciliation; in the midst of confusion a creator of harmony and justice. Let us pray the Spirit may once again renew the life of God's people. . . ."

The message is signed by Archbishop Athenagoras of Thyateira (Eastern Orthodox), Dr. Elvind Berggrav (Lutheran, Norway), Dr. Marc Boegner (Reformed, France), Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury (Anglican, England), Miss Sarah Chakko (Syrian, India), Dr. John R. Mott (Honorary President, U.S.A.) and Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam (Methodist, U.S.A.).

Pentecost is one of the most ancient festivals of the Church. The first Christian Pentecost occurred 50 days after Easter when, according to the account in the Book of Acts, the first Christians were gathered in Jerusalem to celebrate the very ancient Jewish Pentecost, or "Feast of Weeks," which was related to the giving of the law to Moses and the covenant to Noah. At this time the disciples were visited by the Holy Spirit, and from the events of that day the history of the Christian church is usually dated.

Pentecost rated as one of the three major festivals in the early church, of similar importance to Christmas and Easter. The 50 days following Easter (referred to as the Pentecost season) were a particularly joyous time of the church year. Pentecost Sunday, which closed the period, became known as Whitsunday (White Sunday) because of the white garments worn by the many candidates for baptism on these occasions.

Because the Biblical account emphasized the Holy Spirit came to the disciples when they had all come together "with one accord," the World Council of Churches has felt that this is an appropriate time to emphasize the rebirth of the spiritual unity (not necessarily corporate or organizational unity) toward which it looks, and to help the individual Christian or the local church to become more aware of world-wide ties.

Barbra, Jeanie and Mrs. Paul Lively left Thursday morning for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wharf of Punta Gorda, Florida.

Mrs. Daisy Armstrong and Miss Dollie Dille are spending several days with Mrs. Armstrong's sister, Mrs. Gladys Stimpert of Dayton.

Pvt. Kenneth E. Dille from Indian Town Gap Pa. was home on a 13 day furlough and leaves Wednesday for Seattle Washington. He spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Oman Dille.

Mrs. Edith Carol of Columbus was a recent guest of Mrs. Dartha Harmon.

Mr. Plyly Tatman, Gerald Rose, Mrs. Dartha Harmon and Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh attended the funeral of Mr. Levi Tatman Monday in Hallsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Steel and children, Joan, Cloyd and Karen were Saturday guests of Mrs. Bess Steel of Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wiggins and children Sammy, Tommy and Judy left Wednesday for Corpus Christi Texas, where they will spend the summer. Mr. Wiggins is employed there.

Elmer Waltz of Lancaster and Mrs. Joe Di Cesare and children, Mrs. Cecil Shackelford and daughter and Mrs. Jack Shackelford all of Columbus were Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Karshner.

Miss Karen Kay Karshner is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Di Cesare of Columbus.

The Rev. George Troutman says: "In this age of secularization it is increasingly important that we interest ourselves in the religious training of our children. Outside of the home and the church, there is little opportunity for children to learn the basic tenets of the Christian faith.

"The responsibility of parents for the spiritual well-being of their children is even greater than that of looking after their physical needs. An idea that has become quite popular among lazy parents is that it is best to let the children decide about Sunday school and church for themselves.

"Children must be guided and they must be guided in truth and light. It is in the interest of all mankind, for the children of the world to have a substantial education in religion."

Senior choir will lead congregational singing of the hymns, "Holy, Holy, Holy," "Jesus, Lead The Way," "O Blessed The House, What'er Befall" and "Beautiful Savior, King of Creation."

The Laurel Class met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. George Sweeney with Mrs. Frieda Lappen assisting hostess. Devotionals reading the 20 chapter of Psalms and The Lords Prayer in unison. Contests won by Mrs. Irvin Kohler and Mrs. Ed. Fetherolf. Refreshments were served to 13 members.

Mrs. Maud Devault returned home Sunday after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Rhodes and Mrs. Blanch Duden of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sells and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tuller and sons of Columbus were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Sells.

Mr. and Mrs. Oman Dille visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Cash of Richmondale.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Suackhamer and daughters Velma, Alberta,

Child Religion To Be Theme For Lutherans

Book of Proverbs will provide the sermon theme for Sunday's worship service in Trinity Lutheran church. The theme is "Religious Training of Your Child."

The Rev. George Troutman says: "In this age of secularization it is increasingly important that we interest ourselves in the religious training of our children. Outside of the home and the church, there is little opportunity for children to learn the basic tenets of the Christian faith.

"The responsibility of parents for the spiritual well-being of their children is even greater than that of looking after their physical needs. An idea that has become quite popular among lazy parents is that it is best to let the children decide about Sunday school and church for themselves.

"Children must be guided and they must be guided in truth and light. It is in the interest of all mankind, for the children of the world to have a substantial education in religion."

Senior choir will lead congregational singing of the hymns, "Holy, Holy, Holy," "Jesus, Lead The Way," "O Blessed The House, What'er Befall" and "Beautiful Savior, King of Creation."

Pentecost To Be Observed Sunday In Churches Throughout World

Local churches are to join with churches across America and around the world Sunday in observance of Pentecost (Whitsunday).

In many churches which are members of the World Council of Churches (this includes most of the major denominations in the United States) a message from the presidents of the World Council will be read. The Pentecost message, sent to the 158 member communions of the World Council in 43 countries, says in part:

"We celebrate today the creation of the Church of Jesus Christ by the Holy Spirit. We should ask ourselves whether our churches and whether we ourselves really know the Holy Spirit and let the Spirit rule our lives.

"Saint Paul bids us remember that the spirit which God has given to the Church is not a timid spirit. The Holy Spirit of God forbids us to be fearful for the future of the Church, or to be preoccupied with the search for security against real or imagined dangers. The Holy Spirit is the Spirit of power, the life-giving and dynamic Spirit, the Spirit of total renewal. The Spirit of love leads the Church to embrace in its prayer, its witness and its works of mercy, men of all races, nations, parties and creeds. . . The Spirit of Pentecost is the Spirit of unity.

"There is nothing, absolutely nothing, that the Church needs more than a rekindling of the gift which God gave it at Pentecost. The Church which lives under the guidance of the Spirit is in the midst of human weakness a center of spiritual power; in the midst of conflict and strife a force of reconciliation; in the midst of confusion a creator of harmony and justice. Let us pray the Spirit may once again renew the life of God's people. . ."

The message is signed by Archbishop Athenagoras of Thyateira (Eastern Orthodox), Dr. Elvino Berggrave (Lutheran, Norway), Dr. Marc Boegner (Reformed, France), Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury (Anglican, England), Miss Sarah Chakko (Syrian, India), Dr. John R. Mott (Honorary President, U.S.A.) and Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam (Methodist, U.S.A.).

Pentecost is one of the most ancient festivals of the Church. The first Christian Pentecost occurred 50 days after Easter when, according to the account in the Book of Acts, the first Christians were gathered in Jerusalem to celebrate the very ancient Jewish Pentecost, or "Feast of Weeks," which was related to the giving of the law to Moses and the covenant to Noah. At this time the disciples were visited by the Holy Spirit, and from the events of that day the history of the Christian church is usually dated.

Pentecost rated as one of the three major festivals in the early church, of similar importance to Christmas and Easter. The 50 days following Easter (referred to as the Pentecost season) were a particularly joyous time of the church year. Pentecost Sunday, which closed the period, became known as Whitsunday (White Sunday) because of the white garments worn by the many candidates for baptism on these occasions.

Because the Biblical account emphasized the Holy Spirit came to the disciples when they had all come together "with one accord," the World Council of Churches has felt that this is an appropriate time to emphasize the rebirth of the spiritual unity (not necessarily corporate or organizational unity) toward which it looks, and to help the individual Christian or the local church to become more aware of world-wide ties.

'Graduate Day' To Be Observed In First EUB
"Graduate Recognition Day" services will be held in First Evangelical United Brethren church at 9:30 a. m. Sunday when twelve young people graduating from high school will be honored.

Pews will be reserved for graduates and their parents with Church School Superintendent Edwin Richardson presenting each youth with a gift from the church school.

The service will open with Pat Nau, organist, playing a prelude, "Morning," after which Fidelis Chorus will sing a processional hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy."

Richardson will give call to worship, offer the invocation and lead the congregation in affirmation of faith.

Congregation will sing hymn entitled "I Want to Be a Worker For the Lord." Pastoral prayer for youth will be offered by the Rev. Carl Wilson.

"My Task" is the anthem of the chorists.

"Youth and God" is to be the sermon topic, developed from a text in Ecclesiastes 12:1.

Of this sermon the Rev. Mr. Wilson says: "Young people, wherever they are found today, look for something that will satisfy every craving of their zestful and vibrant hearts. Many are looking for the thrill of the moment, that sense of 'satisfaction for today, let tomorrow take care of itself.'"

"Other youth, whom we all like to know and whom the world holds in highest esteem, follow the admonition of the writer of Ecclesiastes 12:1 when he said, 'Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth.' In following this call, youth desires to find satisfaction for life's needs. Youth are conscious that Christ's Way is the way to live. As youth enters upon this life, and includes God in their plans, there are realities for which youth have expectation. Youth today wants a sense of stability.

"They desire assurance that the evil and those who do the wrong are not getting all of the better things of life as it so often seems. Youth desires to have a bulwark of faith so that there is real revelation of God's favorable look on life. Basically that is what youth are expecting out of life. With that stability and assurance having become a reality youth go forward victoriously to answer the call of Christ in a troubled world. God expects something of youth!"

He expects the heart of youth. He expects the mind of youth. He expects undivided loyalty. He expects obedience of youth. God expects to have the "you" in youth. Youth expects much of life today and rightfully so. But God also expects youth to fulfill His expectations of them."

Church School classes will study a Bible lesson, "Christ's Standard of Moral Purity."

TOUGH GERMAN PROBLEM

AMERICAN DIPLOMATS have tried hard to bring West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization this month so that the machinery of the military alliance may be approved definitely before European parliaments and the U.S. Congress adjourn. But the coal-rich Saar Valley has just about upset the applecart.

West Germany reiterates it will not go along if the French persist in trying to detach the Saar from Germany permanently. France stubbornly resists all efforts to change the status of the Saar, now temporarily a separate political unit linked with France. Its permanent status is to be determined in negotiations for a German peace treaty.

The West Germans are agreeable to being saved from the Russians, but they are lukewarm to the idea of contributing army strength to the common defense. And they seem definitely determined to save the Saar from the wreckage of the last war.

Two years ago France won a 50-year lease on the Saar mines, subject to peace treaty confirmation. West Germany protests that this agreement and any hint that the Saar will be awarded to France sets German opinion boiling. The Germans want a plebiscite. Residents in the Saar voted overwhelmingly for reunion with Germany in a plebiscite in 1935.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is leaving and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway arriving at a time when West Europe is up in the air. Russia has tossed a phony promise of a reunited Germany into the boiling pot and American leadership faces hard decisions in trying to preserve a free Europe.

These Days

Senator John W. Bricker and a number of other senators, both Democrats and Republicans, have introduced Senate Joint Resolution 130, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States which is fundamental to our liberties.

This resolution to be effective must be passed by two-thirds of both houses of Congress and by three-fourths of the States. When it is realized how speedily the 18th Amendment abolishing Prohibition was passed, it is surprising that this proposed amendment should be relatively ignored.

For, unless some measures are taken, the United Nations could become a legislative body for the American people. According to at least one decision of our courts, the Charter of the United Nations being a treaty and therefore the law of the land, actions taken under that treaty are binding upon us. The Bricker resolution is designed to correct this loophole in our Constitutional system.

The first three sections deal with problems arising out of the existence of the United Nations and the authority which our own Constitution gives to United Nations resolutions:

"Section 1. No treaty or executive agreement shall be made respecting the rights of citizens of the United States protected by the Constitution, or abridging or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

"Sec. 2. No treaty or executive agreement shall vest in any international organization or in any foreign power any of the legislative, executive, or judicial powers vested by this Constitution in the Congress, the President, and in the courts of the United States, respectively.

"Sec. 3. No treaty or executive agreement shall alter or abridge the laws of the United States or the Constitution or laws of the several States unless, and then only to the extent that, Congress shall so provide by Act or joint resolution."

Should this amendment to the Constitution be adopted, each measure of the United Nations affecting the American people would have to be passed, to be effective, by the Congress of the United States.

For instance, the United Nations is now considering a resolution which Americans regard as a limitation upon the freedom of the press. Should such a resolution be passed, as matters now stand, our courts might hold that it is good law, having been agreed upon within the terms of the Charter of the United Nations, which is a treaty and therefore the law of the land.

Under the Bricker amendment, such an United Nations resolution would not affect Americans unless passed by Congress. And an act of Congress cannot contravene the Constitution, as this one obviously would.

The second phase of this resolution is of equal importance. Steps are constantly being taken by the President and the State Department which, were they treaties, would, under the Constitution, have to be ratified by the Senate before they can be binding upon the United States. At Teheran and Yalta, for instance, actions were taken "by executive agreement" which affect our whole history. We are now at war in Korea because of Teheran and Yalta.

CHAPTER FIFTY-SIX

THE AFTERNOON had become blustery, and Miss Julie was cold when they reached the O'Donnell house. The children were playing in the yard and she stopped to shout an objection about sore throat and pneumonia, and led her cousin into the house.

Closing the door carefully, with the air of a conspirator, Miss Julie got Heloise seated near the heater, put her own blunt-toed walking shoes against it with the expressed hope that she wouldn't have chilblains, and related her conversation with Colonel Calvert.

"I'll tell you what I think," Miss Julie said. "I'm getting old and nobody seems to give me credit for any sense, and since I haven't got poor Tessie to defend me—"

Heloise repressed a smile. "—I don't feel so sure of myself," Miss Julie finished. "But I don't believe Leonie really has any vocation. Judge not is one of my mottoes, but I don't think the child has a vocation and the Colonel says that the boy is willing to come into the church."

"But cousin Julie," Heloise said. "Henri objects to the Calverts. And he's been on a very high horse since he took that new position."

Miss Julie, being of the opinion that filial obedience counted for less than conversion, said: "Leonie is twenty-two. She can do just what she likes."

"That's all very well," Heloise said, "but he would never see it that way. And Henri hasn't been in the best of health lately. If Leonie goes behind his back and marries this boy it will break his heart. I almost think it would kill him. And I don't think she'd even open a letter from Lincoln Calvert, so there's no way for him to be the one to tell her."

"Pride goes before a fall," Miss Julie said darkly. "If I was Henri I wouldn't want the loss of a soul on my conscience. Well, child, I suppose you know best. I've done what I could."

"I'm going to think it over hard," Heloise said. "You don't say a word to Colonel Calvert about Leonie's vocation?"

"No indeed, child," Heloise rose, threw on her coat, and departed.

"A fine mess they've made," Miss Julie muttered.

Henri, as Heloise had said, was on a high horse. His new salary had made him feel confident and a little arrogant.

He had come home a bit early, and Heloise found him by the Franklin stove smoking a cigar and sipping a glass of sherry while he listened to the phonograph he had bought on the installment plan—for, seeing his way out of debt, he had relaxed his economies.

"I had a long talk with Cousin Julie today," Heloise began.

Henri nodded.

"She had a visit from Colonel Calvert."

"I don't want to hear about him."

"He told her he was worried about his nephew."

Henri shrugged. He saw very clearly to what point the discussion was leading and frowned discouragingly.

"The young man is running wild since Leonie quarrelled with him."

"Good," Henri said. "Let him go to the devil as fast as his feet will carry him."

"Brother," Heloise went on, refusing to be discouraged, "the Colonel says it was his wish from the first that Lincoln should marry Leonie."

"Is that so? Well, very nice of him," Henri said with crushing sarcasm. "Very condescending. I feel flattered."

"He says," Heloise continued in the same calm tone, "that he will undertake to persuade the young man to become a Catholic if Leonie will have him."

Henri's lip curled. "I suppose he thinks that's everything," he said scornfully. "It's not, and you know it. He ought to understand that we'd never consent to having Leonie marry one of the crazy profligate Calverts. I'd much rather have Leonie become a sister than marry that young ruffian."

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, I am. There was always something underhanded about Eddie Calvert. Why couldn't he come to me instead of sneaking off to Cousin Julie? We don't want her interfering in our business. I suppose he didn't dare."

The thought of Colonel Calvert's being afraid of her brother tempted Heloise to laugh but she concealed her amusement. "I doubt if he was as afraid," she said. "I guess he felt we wouldn't receive the offer very sympathetically coming direct from him."

"And he was absolutely right, for the first time in his life. I don't want any niece of mine marrying a traitor's nephew and it won't take me long to tell either of them just that."

"Have you thought," Heloise asked, abandoning diplomacy, "that Leonie is of age? She doesn't really have to ask us."

Henri looked at her as he might have looked at an escaped lunatic. "You don't mean to suggest that she would disobey? Leonie never would do that. She knows that neither one of us would ever forgive her. There's no use," he said sternly, "continuing this argument. I'm going to send Leonie to New York, and after that, if she makes up her mind to enter the convent, we'll have to get used to the idea."

"Brother," Heloise said, beginning to lose her temper at this obstinacy, "you're arguing for the sake of arguing and you know it."

A certain prominent Philadelphia

a party where some liberally spiked milk punch was being served, the clergyman thought it to be plain milk and downed a whopping beaker before his horrified parishioners could stop him.

They awaited his words of denunciation with sinking hearts. But the preacher simply smirked his lips and exclaimed soulfully, "Glory be to Heaven for a cow like that!"

news behind the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON, May 31 — "Has Senator McCarthy," inquires R. T. G. of Longmeadow, Mass., where I once picked up as a higher schooler, "proved unequivocally in a single instance his charges that certain government employees were reds?"

Answer: I do not think he has, and I am sure that the record will bear me out. That does not mean that his efforts have been negligible, however.

Hundreds of employees have been fired or "allowed to resign" because of the public interest and indignation he aroused against the coddling of fellow-travelers at Washington. Otherwise, they might have been kept on the payroll.

McCarthy has forced a complete change in the Truman Administration's handling of this problem. Whereas Truman once branded these and other charges as a "red herring," he has become a red baiter.

Watch the forthcoming decision of the Subversive Activities Control Board on the question of whether the Communist Party and its front organizations must register under the alien registration law.

ATTITUDE — "Is it true," asks the same reader, "that Senator Taft approves of 'McCarthyism,' and that this approval is harming Taft's campaign for the presidential nomination?"

Answer: Taft has equivocated on this question. He tries to give the impression that he disagrees with McCarthy's unfair and high-handed tactics, but that he supports that Wisconsin senator's basic objective.

As to whether this attitude hurts or helps Taft, that depends on the reaction of a majority of the electorate. It's probable that the break is about fifty-fifty, judging from Congressional and my own correspondence.

BOSS — "Why, please," explodes H. L. H. of Houston, Tex., "do responsible journalists persist in fixing the blame of Yalta on Franklin D. Roosevelt, while that great man, Churchill, goes unmolested? Churchill was far more seasoned in world affairs and he was also a well man, whereas F.D.R. was on the death trail."

Answer: This is a perplexing but challenging question, although think there is an explanation. After all, the United States was the dominant and decisive power in the war. F.D.R. was the big boss insofar as relations with Churchill and Stalin were concerned. The Prime Minister recognized England's great debt to the United States.

Roosevelt, as Elliott tells us in his memoirs, had sided with Stalin against Churchill in every conference where the three met. Perhaps Winnie thought that the Roosevelt personality and concessions at Yalta would persuade "Uncle Joe" to be a good, post-war boy. Therefore, he let F.D.R. call the tune.

BAMBOOZLED — Churchill may also have had his nationally selfish motives. He may have figured that, by granting Stalin certain rights in the Far East, he would persuade Russian and Chinese Communists not to endanger Britain's $2 billion investment in that area, extending from Shanghai to Singapore.

If this was Churchill's idea, he was bamboozled as completely as F.D.R. was. Despite London's recognition of Mao-Tse-tung, British business men, industrialists and exporters are now pulling out of China with a terrific financial loss and with a disastrous blow to the prestige of western civilization.

SUPPORT — "To settle a small bet among close friends," writes W. J. of Shelton, Conn.,

"can you tell me which presidential candidate received the majority of daily newspaper support in the 1936, 1940 and 1944 elections?"

Answer: My newspaper experts tell me that President Roosevelt had the bulk of newspaper backing in 1936 for the last time. He had done a remarkable job of recovery by that year, although the implications of many of his reforms were not recognized. Moreover, it was not until after this one-sided contest—Landon carried only Maine and Vermont—that F.D.R. introduced his bill to pack the Supreme Court.

In 1940 and 1944, my informant tells me, most of the American press supported Willkie and Dewey, respectively.

SALARY — "Philip Murray told us over the radio," says Mrs. J. A. S. of Houston, Tex., "how much salary Ben Fairless and other steel executives get. How much does Murray get as the steel union president? Where does his union invest its money?"

Answer: Murray gets $25,000 and expenses. His union's $10 billion of assets are invested as follows: $8 billion in United States bonds, $1 billion cash and $1 billion in two attractive real estate properties at Washington, including a fine office building half a block from the White House.

SUPPORT — "To settle a small bet among close friends," writes W. J. of Shelton, Conn.,

CHAPTER FIFTY-SIX

THE AFTERNOON had become blustery, and Miss Julie was cold when they reached the O'Donnell house. The children were playing in the yard and she stopped to shout an objection about sore throat and pneumonia, and led her cousin into the house.

Closing the door carefully, with the air of a conspirator, Miss Julie told Heloise seated near the heater, put her own blunt-toed walking shoes against it with the expressed hope that she wouldn't have chilblains, and related her conversation with Colonel Calvert.

"I'll tell you what I think," Miss Julie said. "I'm getting old and nobody seems to give me credit for any sense, and since I haven't got poor Tessie to defend me—"

Heloise repressed a smile. "—I don't feel so sure of myself," Miss Julie finished. "But I don't believe Leonie really has any vocation. Judge not is one of my mottoes, but I don't think the child has a vocation and the Colonel says that the boy is willing to come into the church."

"But cousin Julie," Heloise said. "Henri objects to the Calverts. And he's been on a very high horse since he took that new position."

Miss Julie, being of the opinion that filial obedience counted for less than conversion, said: "Leonie is twenty-two. She can do just what she likes."

"That's all very well," Heloise said, "but he would never see it that way. And Henri hasn't been in the best of health lately. If Leonie goes behind his back and marries this boy it will break his heart. I almost think it would kill him. And I don't think she'd even open a letter from Lincoln Calvert, so there's no way for him to be the one to tell her."

"Pride goes before a fall," Miss Julie said darkly. "If I was Henri I wouldn't want the loss of a soul on my conscience. Well, child, I suppose you know best. I've done what I could."

"I'm going to think it over hard," Heloise said. "You didn't say a word to Colonel Calvert about Leonie's vocation?"

"No indeed, child," Heloise rose, threw on her coat, and departed.

"A fine mess they've made," Miss Julie muttered.

Henri, as Heloise had said, was on a high horse. His new salary had made him feel confident and a little arrogant.

He had come home a bit early, and Heloise found him by the Franklin stove, smoking a cigar and sipping a glass of sherry while he listened to the phonograph he had bought on the installment plan—for, seeing his way out of debt, he had relaxed his economies.

"I had a long talk with Cousin Julie today," Heloise began.

Who says it's impossible to solve the traffic congestion problem? A prolonged oil strike can do the trick—but fast!

Grandpappy Jenkins says that today the only way you can make a dollar bill go far is to drop it out of a plane at 10,000 feet.

Today's Fable: Once upon a time an office employee returned from his vacation without a single snapshot with which to bore his fellow workers.

Zadok Dumkopf, our favorite backyarder, has announced that this season he positively refuses to buy any plant food. Times are tough enough, says he, without having to buy groceries for a flock of dandelions.

Henri nodded. "She had a visit from Colonel Calvert."

"I don't want to hear about him."

"He told her he was worried about his nephew."

Henri shrugged. He saw very clearly to what point the discussion was leading and frowned discouragingly.

"The young man is running wild since Leonie quarrelled with him."

"Good," Henri said. "Let him go to the devil as fast as his feet will carry him."

"Brother," Heloise went on, refusing to be discouraged, "the Colonel says it was his wish from the first that Lincoln should marry Leonie."

"Is that so? Well, very nice of him," Henri said with crushing sarcasm. "Very condescending. I feel flattered."

"He says," Heloise continued in the same calm tone, "that he will undertake to persuade the young man to become a Catholic if Leonie will have him."

Henri's lip curled. "I suppose he thinks that's everything," he said scornfully. "It's not, and you know it. He ought to understand that we'd never consent to having Leonie marry one of the crazy profligate Calverts. I'd much rather have Leonie become a sister than marry that young ruffian."

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, I am. There was always something underhanded about Eddie Calvert. Why couldn't he come to me instead of sneaking off to Cousin Julie? We don't want her interfering in our business. I suppose he didn't dare."

The thought of Colonel Calvert's being afraid of her brother tempted Heloise to laugh but she concealed her amusement. "I doubt if he was afraid," she said. "I guess he felt we wouldn't receive the offer very sympathetically coming direct from him."

"And he was absolutely right for the first time in his life. I don't want any niece of mine marrying a traitor's nephew and it won't take me long to tell either of them just that."

"Have you thought," Heloise asked, abandoning diplomacy, "that Leonie is of age? She doesn't really have to ask us."

Henri looked at her as he might have looked at an escaped lunatic. "You don't mean to suggest that she would disobey? Leonie never would do that. She knows that neither one of us would ever forgive her. There's no use," he said sternly, "continuing this argument. I'm going to send Leonie to New York, and after that, if she makes up her mind to enter the convent, we'll have to get used to the idea."

"Brother," Heloise said, beginning to lose her temper at this obstinacy, "you're arguing for the sake of arguing and you know it."

You don't want Leonie to be a sister."

"It was not my wish," Henri said.

"Well, let me tell you something," Heloise said. "You'll push Leonie right into that convent if you're not careful. You know how determined she is."

"I think she'll change her mind," Henri insisted, "once she completely forgets that fellow. She told me she was through with him."

Henri didn't feel happy. He could not understand the Panama Canal Associates. Small contributions to the project came in regularly from business men of the city, which in itself was a cause of amazement to Henri, and there were expenditures of a moderate sort. But the bookkeeping was not enough to keep him busy two hours a day.

During the first week Henri had pacified himself with the assurance that greater activity would come in time. However, during the second week he had found time heavy on his hands and had asked Mr. McDevitt if something more could be found for him to do.

Mr. McDevitt looked up smilingly.

"Why, that's nice of you, Mr. Lemay," he said. "I sure do appreciate that kind of feeling, huh. Right now, I'm sorry to say, there's nothing you can do except keep up the accounts. Later I'm going to try to give you some more responsible work. Now, you just be patient with us."

Henri had thanked him and gone on wondering. He wished particularly, now, that he could be busier, for that would have kept his mind off this annoying new development of Heloise and Cousin Julie trying to betray him. It was as if the treacherous influence of old Calvert had crept in to poison his household.

And, seeing the tall spare figure of the renegade coming in his direction on Meeting street late one afternoon as he was going home, he deliberated insulting the fellow then and there. He watched warily as the Colonel approached, and then had a sensation of panic as the old gentleman, with the courtliness of another day, lifted his hat and said, "Good-evening, Mr. Lemay."

Henri struggled with the temptation to cut him, as he deserved, and replied with frigid civility.

"It's been a pleasant day," the Colonel agreed.

Henri agreed that it had been and began to move on. To his embarrassment, the Colonel fell into step with him.

"Mr. Lemay," he said, "I'm going to ask you to overlook what I'm afraid you'll consider interference."

Henri's back stiffened. "That depends, sir," he said.

at a party where some liberally spiked milk punch was being served, the clergyman thought it to be plain milk and downed a whopping beaker before his horrified parishioners could stop him.

They awaited his words of denunciation with sinking hearts. But the preacher simply smirked his lips and exclaimed soulfully, "Glory be to Heaven for a cow like that!"

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, May 31 — "Has Senator McCarthy," inquires R. T. G. of Longmeadow, Mass., where I once picked as a higher schooler, "proved unequivocally in a single instance his charges that certain government employees were reds?"

Answer: I do not think he has, and I am sure that the record will bear me out. That does not mean that his efforts have been negligible, however.

Hundreds of employees have been fired or "allowed to resign" because of the public interest and indignation he aroused against the coddling of fellow-travelers at Washington. Otherwise, they might have been kept on the payroll.

McCarthy has forced a complete change in the Truman Administration's handling of this problem. Whereas Truman once branded these and other charges as a "red herring," he has become a red baiter.

Watch the forthcoming decision of the Subversive Activities Committee Board on the question of whether the Communist Party and its front organizations must register under the alien registration law.

ATTITUDE — "Is it true," asks the same reader, "that Senator Taft approves of 'McCarthyism,' and that this approval is harming Taft's campaign for the presidential nomination?"

Answer: Taft has equivocated on this question. He tries to give the impression that he disagrees with McCarthy's unfair and high-handed tactics, but that he supports that Wisconsin senator's basic objective.

As to whether this attitude hurts or helps Taft, that depends on the reaction of a majority of the electorate. It's probable that the break is about fifty-fifty, judging from Congressional and my own correspondence.

BOSS — "Why, please," explodes H. L. H. of Houston, Tex., "do responsible journalists persist in fixing the blame of Yalta on Franklin D. Roosevelt, while that great man, Churchill, goes unmentioned?"

Answer: This is a perplexing but challenging question, although I think there is an explanation. After all, the United States was the dominant and decisive power in the war. F.D.R. was the big boss insofar as relations with Churchill and Stalin were concerned. The Prime Minister recognized England's great debt to the United States.

Roosevelt, as Elliott tells us in his memoirs, had sided with Stalin against Churchill in every conference where the three met. Perhaps Winnie thought that the Roosevelt personality and concessions at Yalta would persuade "Uncle Joe" to be a good, post-war boy. Therefore, he let F.D.R. call the tune.

BAMBOOZLED — Churchill may also have had his nationally selfish motives. He may have figured that, by granting Stalin certain rights in the Far East, he would persuade Russian and Chinese Communists not to endanger Britain's $2 billion investment in that area, extending from Shanghai to Singapore.

If this was Churchill's idea, he was bamboozled as completely as F.D.R. was. Despite London's recognition of Mao-Tse-tung, British business men, industrialists and exporters are now pulling out of China with a terrific financial loss and with a disastrous blow to the prestige of western civilization.

SUPPORT — "To settle a small bet among close friends," writes W. J. of Shelton, Conn.,

By Ray Tucker

"can you tell me which presidential candidate received the majority of daily newspaper support in the 1936, 1940 and 1944 elections?"

Answer: My newspaper experts tell me that President Roosevelt had the bulk of newspaper backing in 1936 for the last time. He had done a remarkable job of recovery by that year, although the implications of many of his reforms were not recognized. Moreover, it was not until after this one-sided contest—Landon carried only Maine and Vermont—that F.D.R. introduced his bill to pack the Supreme Court.

In 1940 and 1944, my informant tells me, most of the American press supported Willkie and Dewey, respectively.

SALARY — "Philip Murray told us over the radio," says Mrs. J. A. S. of Houston, Tex., "how much salary Ben Fairless and other steel executives get. How much does Murray get as the steel union president? Where does his union invest its money?"

Answer: Murray gets $25,000 and expenses. His union's $10 billion of assets are invested as follows: $8 billion in United States bonds, $1 billion cash and $1 billion in two attractive real estate properties at Washington, including a fine office building half a block from the White House.

MR. MARSHALL MCFARLAND

Seventeen years in the logging business after he finished his schooling is the training that helped to fit Mr. Marshall McFarland for his role as a partner in the business of I. N. McFarland & Sons, heavy hauling, excavating, ditching and bulldozing contractors with offices at the junction of Highways 104 and 56.

Mr. McFarland is a native of Ross County, Ohio and has lived here since 1923. He received his education in Williamsport Public Schools and is married to the former Miss Cora Wood of Circleville. They have three children: Theresa Mae, 12, Barbara, 9, and Thelma Jean, 4. The family attends the United Brethren church and Mr. McFarland is also a member of the National Grange. In World War II he served for three years with the Aviation Engineers of the U. S. Army. His favorite sports are football and wrestling.

In the business of I. N. McFarland & Sons, Mr. Marshall McFarland is a partner and he helped his father and brother establish the business in 1948. The company has latest scientific equipment for the handling of all types of heavy duty hauling, excavating, ditching, basement digging, etc. They have a new 18-ton "Dozer", new tractor-trailer unit with 8 to 10 ft. capacity, and a Crane for general dragline work, etc. They handle International machines and Armour's fertilizers. They offer real service to any and all in Pickaway and adjoining counties and do hauling anywhere, anytime. The telephone numbers to call for service are 1919 or 4011. Prompt, expert service is assured at any time and all jobs are under the personal supervision of one of the McFarlands.

3,000 Attend Memorial Day Race Program Here; One Driver Hurt

About 3,000 spectators were on hand Friday for a Memorial Day speed program of the Four-City Stock Car Club in Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Feature of the day was a "powder puff" race for women drivers, won by Mickey Storts of Circleville. The event was entered by 11 women.

Friday's races were marred by one serious mishap. Dick Clifton of Circleville was hurt in the second race when his stocker rolled over end.

Clifton was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, where his condition Saturday was reported fair. He reportedly suffered a concussion in the crash.

Winner of the time trials in Friday's program was Lester Shaw of Westerville, who whipped around the one-third mile oval in 27 seconds. Shaw later was disqualified after winning two races for having a "souped-up" car.

SHAW WON the first event of the program, but the top money went to Holograss when Shaw was disqualified.

In the second event, Bud Frazier of Circleville was second and Bryant Grant of Circleville was third.

Thurm Wheeler of Circleville won out in the third event, while Bart Johnston of Columbus, driving a car owned by Glen Jones, was second.

The fourth race was taken by McKittick of Lancaster with Cash of Xenia in second, while the fifth was taken by James Wiley of Xenia with Gene Karshner of Laurels in third place.

Dock Holder won the feature event of the day after Shaw's dis-

City Observes Memorial Day With Parade And Rituals

Use Of Stones Is Theme Of Rev. Clay

Monuments Mark Special Events Of Past History

A colorful pageant of a parade and ritualistic services marked Memorial Day in Circleville Friday.

Feature of the services was the Memorial Day address made in Circleville's Forest cemetery by the Rev. Doyle Clay, pastor of Church of the Nazarene, who spoke upon "What Mean Ye These Stones."

During the address, the Rev. Mr. Clay pointed out monuments erected to signify a special occasion—a victory or an event.

He added that while we are "not supposed to call the present conflict a war, merely a 'col' war, it is difficult to convince a mother who has lost a son that it is anything but war."

TEXT OF the Memorial Day address delivered by the Rev. Mr. Clay follows:

"Memorial Day has a spiritual as well as a patriotic significance.

"Since President Truman has asked it be a day of prayer as well as a day to honor the soldiers who have died in defense of freedom, therefore I would like to preface my remarks with a verse of scripture from Joshua 4:6: 'What Mean Ye Be These Stones?' "The background for these words of Scripture is found in the incident of Israel's entrance into the land of promise. Israel stood on the banks of the Jordan river and longed for land that flowed with milk and honey, which had been promised to Abraham and his seed, but there was no human means of getting across. Man's extremity has always been God's opportunity, so He parted the waters of the river as He had done for them at the Red Sea and Israel walked through on dry ground.

"Being directed of God, Joshua, their leader, appointed 12 men, one from each of the twelve tribes, to bring each one a stone from the bed of the river on which their feet had stood firm. These stones were erected into a monument as a testimony to their descendants of how God had worked a miracle and brought them through safely. This must have been a hallowed spot to the Israelites across the years to which they could point as a monument of victory.

"Following this custom, a heap of stones has been erected as a monument to preserve the memory of important persons and historical places and events since that time. Hardly a village or hamlet in America is without such a monument. It is erected either in the city square—the park, or as in this case in the cemetery. We have numerous monuments to George Washington to preserve in our memory that he was the father of our country and the first president of these United States; also there are numerous monuments to Abraham Lincoln to help us to remember that he was responsible for the emancipation of the slaves. On Mount Rushmore in the Black Hills of South Dakota you can see the images of Washington-Lincoln-Jefferson and Theodore Roosevelt sculptured in the face of the rock. This is a monument to preserve in our memory the contribution they made to the American way of life.

"The largest monument in the world is the statue of liberty on Bedlow's Island in the New York harbor. There she stands with an arm outstretched as if waving a welcome to those who approach and goodbye to those who depart from our coasts. Its purpose is to preserve in our memory the date when freedom was obtained from the British.

"Monuments are erected in form of tiny crosses dotting the hillsides of Korea in memory of boys who have given their lives for Democracy and for freedom. These monuments will crumble and the elements will mar their beauty and they will be destroyed by the passing of the years; but may the memory of the price of human blood paid in defense of freedom ever remain as a monument within our hearts. It was Jesus Christ who said: 'Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.'

"Let us answer the question of our text—'What mean ye by these stones?' "I. They represent to us the price that has been paid for our way of life. Since the beginning of time, freedom has been purchased at the price of conflict and sacrifice. The Pilgrims made long journey across a perilous ocean with inadequate vessels in search of a land where they could worship God as they pleased. Many grave markers dotted the hillsides of New England ere the first year passed but their freedom was won nevertheless. A wonderful truth was spoken by Patrick Henry to the second Virginia Convention when the fate of a nation was being decided: 'Is life so dear or peace so sweet to be purchased at the price of human slavery? I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death.'

"There is not a family represented here not affected in some measure by the present conflict. Some are more affected than others. In every war there is a home front battle to be fought. This battle requires courage and heroism which is seldom heralded, that of giving sons and daughters and husbands. May we all feel about this sacrifice as did the parents of Martin Moeller who spent months in a concentration camp of the enemy: 'It is a terrible thing to have a son in the concentration camp but there would be something worse for us: if God needed a faithful soldier and our son was not willing to serve.' May God help us to appreciate the freedom we have which was purchased at such a tremendous cost.

"2. These stones remind us of the futility of war as a criterion for settling all of the differences of the world. Greed and selfishness in the hearts of men is the fundamental cause of war, therefore the axe must be laid at the root of the tree if war is to be abolished. The farmer says that the lack of food is the cause of war. John W. Sims has stated: 'The best ally that Communism has is an empty stomach.' This may be true in part but you cannot feed greed and selfishness out of the hearts of men. The industrialists would say: 'The solution to the problem of war is to give everyone a job and keep him busy, but it is not the laboring man who is the war-monger.'

"Jesus Christ never had the advantages which usually accompany greatness; He was born under humble circumstances of humble parentage; He never went to college; never wrote a book; never held public office; never owned a home; and His clothing was His only possession and the soldiers gambled for it at his death.

"He was sold for thirty pieces of silver by one of his friends and thrice denied by another—he was crucified between two thieves and laid in a borrowed tomb. But of all of the parliaments that ever sat or Congresses that ever met, none have changed the course of history as much as this solitary figure. It was prophesied of him that he was coming as the Prince of Peace. Jesus Christ did not fail in this endeavor but the world has failed to consult Him in its peace negotiations. There has almost been war at the peace table because the Prince of Peace has been excluded.

"A mariner on a fishing boat while crossing the Caspian sea was seen intently watching a certain star and refused to let his attention be taken from it. When asked why he was so interested in that particular star he answered: 'If we lose sight of that star, we are lost.' The world today has lost sight of the star of Bethlehem and is about to be ship-wrecked upon the shoals of time.

"3. The cry of sincere hearts the world over is 'What is the prospect of the abolition of war and the hope of an enduring peace?' I am not a pessimist nor a defeatist, but merely a realist; there would be no point in my depicting an earthly utopia when the Bible declares that as long as the world stands there will be war because of sin in the hearts of men.

"We have had two world wars within a quarter of a century and are in the throes of a third. We are not supposed to call the present conflict a war—merely a cold war—but it is difficult to convince a mother who has lost a son that it is anything but war. The Bible tells us there will come a time when there will be peace and when war and its effects will be abolished. This time will come when Satan who is the originator of war, will be chained in the bottomless pit and Jesus Christ shall reign on the throne of David.

"4. These stones or monuments should present to each of us a challenge to strive mightily for the cause of freedom. The rows of crosses seem to spell out: 'We died that you might live in freedom and under the blessings of peace.' The challenge was expressed in Lincoln's Gettysburg Address in these words:

"It is for us the living to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to the cause for which they gave the full measure of devotion. That we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain that this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom and that the government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Many artists are using aluminum sheeting in place of the traditional canvas for oil paintings.

How Many Acres Could YOU Farm Without GASOLINE and OIL?

Only you could answer that question. Without oil and gasoline, it would depend largely on how many back-breaking hours of toil you were willing to put in. But no one knows better than you how farming with gasoline and oil has stepped up your production and helped move your crops to market.

Yes, the power of petroleum has made farming easier, better, more profitable. That's why we're proud to be your oil supplier—part of the progressive oil industry that helps bring about better living on your farms.

We're proud of the high quality petroleum products we sell and the services we give. We're doing everything we can to power your farm with the newest, most improved petroleum products.

How Many Acres Could YOU Farm Without GASOLINE and OIL?

Only you could answer that question. Without oil and gasoline, it would depend largely on how many back-breaking hours of toil you were willing to put in. But no one knows better than you how farming with gasoline and oil has stepped up your production and helped move your crops to market.

Yes, the power of petroleum has made farming easier, better, more profitable. That's why we're proud to be your oil supplier—part of the progressive oil industry that helps bring about better living on your farms.

We're proud of the high quality petroleum products we sell and the services we give. We're doing everything we can to power your farm with the newest, most improved petroleum products.
